

I'd like our discussion and reflections on this poem to move in the direction of exploring the mind watching our sensations and emotions while reading the poem... that does not hope to 'solve' the meaning of the poem... but expands the experience of the poem.